Forecast For Yorkshire & the Humber
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Sunday 21 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Rain at times during tonight and tomorrow.

This Evening and Tonight:
Mostly cloudy overnight with outbreaks of rain at times, occasionally heavy with hill fog over the North York Moors. Winds will remain light throughout and it will stay rather mild. Minimum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Monday:
Monday will likely be similar to Sunday with some outbreaks of rain at times. Some brighter skies may drift into northwestern parts later. Staying mild as winds remain light. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Becoming windy on Tuesday and Wednesday with outbreaks of rain. Turning drier later on Wednesday and into Thursday but with a risk of showers. Remaining largely mild.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.